After the Battle.

The drame are all muffied take bugges are still; There's a page in the valley—a halt on the hill; And bearers of standards sherve back with a theilf, Where sheaves of the dead har the way; For a great daid is reaped, Heaven's garners to fill, And stern Beath holds his harvest to-day.

There's a voice on the winds like a spirit's low cry-"Tis the muster roll sounding-and who shall reply? Not those whose wan faces glare white to the sky,

With eyes fixed so steadfast and dimly, As they wait that last trump which they may not defy, Whose hands clutch the sword hilt so grimly. The brave heads, late lifted, are selemnly bowed,

And the riderless chargers stand quivering and cow'd, As the burial esquiencia chanton about, The ground of the death-stricken drowning ;

While Victory looks on, like a queen, pale and proud, Who awaits till the morrow her crowning. There is no mecking biazon, as ciny sinks to ciny ;

The vain pomps of the peace tinle are all swept away In the terrible face of the dread battle day; Nor collins nor abroadings are here; Only relies that lay where thickest the fray-A rent casque and a headless spear.

Far away, tramp on tramp, peals the murch of the for Like a storm wave's retreating-spent, fitful and slow, With sounds like their spirits that faint as they go By you red-glowing river, whose waters Shall darken with servow the land where they flow To the eyes of her desolate daughters.

They are fiel-they are gone; but oh! not as they came, In the pride of those numbers they staked on the game ; Never more shall they stand in the vanguard of fame, Never lift the stained sword which they drew; Never more shall they boast of a glorious name,

Never much with the leal and the true. Where the wreck of our legions lay stranded and lorg, They stole on our ranks in the mists of the morn : Live the count of Gast their strength it was shorn Ere those mists had rolled up to the sky; From the thash of our steel a new day-break seemed born

As we rung up-to conquer or die. The tumult is silenced; the death lots are cast; And the heroes of battle are slumbering their last, Do you dream of you pale form that rode on the blast? Would ye free it once more! O ye brave? Yes ! the broad road to honor is red where ye passed And of Glory ye asked-but a grave ! -Selected

VARIETY.

Fish, at least, if no other animals, have cause to believe that it is a bad practice to think of rising in life upon somebody's else's hook. The darkest scene we ever saw was a darkey in a dark cellar, with an extinguished candle, looking for a black cat that wasn't there.

A poet says : "Oh, she was fair, but sorrow came and left his traces there." What became of the rest of the harness he doesn't state.

A dan'ty observed that he had put a plate of brass on his boots to keep him upright. "Well balanced, by jing," said a Dutchman; " brass at both ends." A story is told of a person asking another one whether he would advise him to lend a certain friend money. "What! lend him money! You might lend him an emetic, and he wouldn't return it."

A Pittsfield man, who had won a fat turkey at a raffle, and whose pious wife was very inquisitive about his method of obtaining the poultry, satisfied her scruples at last by the witty remark that " the shakers gave it to him."

"An "ardent youth," being discovered by an en-raged sire making love to his daughter, thus describes the effect of the meeting :

" Down on my head his cursed cane Descended. Bless me how the stars. In whirling systems through my brain, Wheeled there red cars !

A Frenchman, having a violent pain in the stomach, applied to a physician (who was an Englishman) for relief. The Frenchman, in dolorous ac-cents, laying his hand on his breast, said, "Vy, sare, I have ver bad pain in my portmanteau."

"But if I put my money in the savings' bank," inquired one of a friend, "when can I draw it out again?" "Oh, responded his Hibernian friend, "sure an if ye put it in to-day, you can get it out again to morrow, by giving a fortnight's notice."

They get up model love letters at Cleveland-short. sweet, and spelled on the principle of complete secession from dictionary rules. Here is one read in court last week : " Deer-thow abcent not forgottin thares a good tym cummin wate a little."

A gentleman in the habit of entertaining, very often, a circle of friends, observing that one of them was in the habit of eating something before grace was asked, and determining to cure him upon a repetition of the offense, said: "For what we are about to recoive and for what J .- T -- has already received, the Lord make us truly thankful." The effect may be imagined.

A Posen -"I hope you are not going to give this stuff to father," sobbed a little girl as she returned from an apothecary's shop, where she had been sent with a doctor's prescription. "Why not, my shild?" inquired the mother, somewhat surprised, " Because," replied the child, " the man took the medicine out of the same bottle that he did the porson the other day for you to kill rats with." "You don't understand science, my dear."

DRINK LESS WITH YOUR MEALS,-Many men have relieved themselves of dyspepsia by not drinking, even water, during meals. No animal, except man, ever drinks in connection with his food. Man ought not to. Try this, dyspeptics; and you will not wash lown mechanically what ought to be masticated and insalivated before ft is swallowed.

CLEANLINESS .- A preacher, whose text led him to speak of the prophet Jonah, among other things, and: "I am of the opinion that Jonah was a cleanly old man, neither smoking nor e'ewing, from the fact that the fish retained him so long in his stomach. If the fish had swallowed the house where we are worshipping, he would no doubt have vomited him-

Fux.-Fun is the most conservative element of society, and ought to be cherished and encouraged by all lawful means. People never plot mischief when they are merry. Laughter is an enemy to malice, a fee to scandal, and a friend to every virtue. It promotes good temper, enlivens the heart, and brightens the intellect. Let us laugh when we can.

How to PRESERVE HEALTH -- Medicine will never remedy had habits. Indulgence of the appetite, indiscriminate dosing and drugging, have ruined the health and destroyed the lives of more persons than famine or pestilence. If you will take advice, you will become regular in your habits, eat and drink only wholesome things, retire and rise very regularly. Make a free use of water to purify the skin; and when sick take counsel of the best practical man you know, and follow nature.

JAPANES: MEDICINE.-An important interview took place at the Japanese departments while in Washington, between a committee of physicians and the three doctors belonging to the embassy, Mensaki, Moryama, and Kawasaki, by which it appears that they are prepared for their profession by a long course of medical study, and of practice in the hospitals, that they practice dissections, and are skilled in obstetrics, and that they understand the action of the heart, and the circulation of the blood. Their remedies are all selected from the vegetable kingdom. They have but little knowledge of surgery, and are anxious to witness operations, and to perfect themselves in surgical science.

PHYSICAL TRAINING -We to the class or nation which has no manly physical training! Lock at the manners, the morals, the faces of the young men of the shop-keeping classes, if you wish to see the effects of utterly neglecting the physical development of man; of fancying that all the muscular activity he requires under the sun is to be able to stand behind a counter, or sit on a desk stool without tumbling off. Be sure that, ever since the days of the Persians of old, effeminacy, if not twin sister of cowardice and dishonesty, has always gone hand in hand with them. To that utter neglect of any exercise which calls out fortitude, patience, self-dependence, and daring, I attribute a great deal of the low sensuality, the conceited vulgarity, the utter want of a high sense of honor, which is increasing just now among the mid-dle classes; and from which the navigator, the engineer, the miner, and the sailor are comparatively free .- Kingsley Miscellanies.
